Keep it Clean Committee Report: 01 16 23

Winter fishing is in full swing and the KIC Committee is trying to keep pace. Conversations and planning in December have led to a process for drafting legislation to address human waste and garbage left on ice covered lakes in Minnesota. Ben Stanley, Minnesota State Senate Counsel with the Revisor's Office is preparing draft language for a bill which we hope will be authored by Senator Mark Johnson and carried with bi-partisan support this session.

January 10 - Zach Gutknecht of the SWCD and Dane Erickson, media support, visited Upper Red Lake with Brian and Robyn Dwight to check in on the businesses with dedicated Human Waste dumpsters in the Pilot program, to make sure signage was available and to offer additional toilet bags. We drove out onto the lake at various locations for a glimpse of winter fishing in progress. Although it was easy to find and pick up trash and sewage on the lake, businesses report that the situation is far better than it was last year. Dane provided dozens of great pictures of the frozen lake and our Keep it Clean signage for our website and facebook page.

January 13 - Senator Johnson's leadership assistant, Rachel Bakke, met on Zoom, with thirteen stakeholders, to talk about the Keep it Clean Initiative and give advice on the bill language and other steps we should take moving forward. Although the meeting was brief it was very positive and Rachel offered to meet with us again as needed. This meeting was followed up with further conversation between Keep it Clean partners as we looked for someone to carry our bill. The bill will be available to our Association and the public once it has been approved in the Senate office. We are having further conversations about a companion bill to address funding for the implementation of a Keep it Clean Bill so that counties have the budget and power to develop enforceable ordinances with stiffer fines.

January 13 - Pat Brown, of the Red Lake DNR talked with Robyn about their fish waste processing enterprise and will share our interest with their people in charge. Currently they have a market for the fish guts from their fishery with a Mink Farmer who needs a steady supply. Pat and I talked about the possibility of resorts on Upper Red arranging to use this resource to manage fish waste. Robyn contacted the Province of Manitoba's Department of Natural Resources and Northern Development after reading a news article about a Pilot Program on Lake Winnipeg to allow a limited number of licensed operators to set up "commercial overnight accommodations on ice". The reply and link to a website with licensing and permitting instructions was included. Robyn has shared this with the association for interest.

January 17 - Robyn and Brian will attend the Red River Basin Commission Conference in Winnipeg on January 17 & 18 to introduce the Minnesota Keep it Clean Initiative
January 20 - Robyn has been invited to attend the annual DNR Roundtable in Bloomington, MN. Joe Henry, of LOTW KIC will also be in attendance. This will be an opportunity for Joe and Robyn to continue the conversation about education, legislation and funding for our priorities.

Sheriff Jason Riggs has invited Robyn to be on Chat About - a local radio program, in early February, to talk about Keep it Clean and to explain the benefits to communities in our county. It has been a very busy month and we continue to have positive feedback and growing support for our work. Lake area associations around the State are encouraged to visit the Keepitcleanmn.org website to find out how they can join and make a difference in their areas.
